Plant Spirit Healing

With

Pam Montgomery

June 5-7, 2009

Join us as we learn how to align with the Spirits of the plants and listen deeply. Plants are the most successful organisms on the planet. They have the unique ability to create food and tissue from sunlight, while freeing oxygen. Recent scientific research shows that plants are intelligent beings with the capacity to store enormous amounts of information while being highly efficient in communicating and making decisions. Indigenous healers have known this about plants for centuries and recognize that it is the spirit of the plants that does the communicating and healing.

During this three-day intensive we will explore both science and traditional knowledge to learn how to communicate with plants and translate their message. Through entering the daydream of the plant and through shamanic dream journeying we will come to understand the spirit of the plant and how it can serve as a guide, ally and friend, helping us in our lives and others' with everything from serious illness to making life choices to bringing a greater sense of well-being.

This experiential long weekend will include:

- building relationship with plants through sensual awareness
- communication through light, sound and breath
- stepping into the daydream of plants
- shamanic Spirit journeying
- receiving a personal plant ally
- specific Plant Spirit Healing treatments for personal and professional use
- spiritual bathing with plants to clear auras
- “greenbreath”, combining transformational breathwork with plants
- and more ...
